This boundary type is available only for compressible flows. Outflow boundary conditions are used to model flow exits where the details of the flow velocity and pressure are not known prior to solution of the flow problem. They are appropriate where the exit flow is close to a fully developed condition, as the outflow boundary condition assumes ...

Friction Factor. The friction factor is a measure of the resistance to flow by a pipe. It was developed in the 1930s and remains the basis for computing pressure drop due to friction [18].. There are two "flavors" of friction factor; the Darcy (or Moody) friction factor is equal to four times the Fanning ...
